

Reception Weekly Newsletter

24.1.20

We have loved listening to the rest of the children's home learning about what is special to them.

The children have also begun to write their parts of the class story. They will create the class book next, all contributing to the writing, as they have practised what to write this week.

Next week we are also going to be learning about Chinese New Year, which is this Saturday (25th). We really enjoy learning about other cultures, and we know the children will too.

In phonics this week we have learnt two new phonemes: q (qu) and z / zz. We have read words such as quit, quick, quack, liquid, zap, zip, buzz, zigzag. We have also learnt the tricky word 'me'. We have used all of our phonic knowledge to read and write sentences using the new letters.

In Maths we have been learning about partitioning 7 - what two numbers make 7? "Six and one more makes seven." "Four and three together makes seven." Five and two together make seven." "Seven add zero is seven."

The children are enjoying borrowing books from the lending library. It is lovely to see their enthusiasm, so thank you for encouraging them at home.
