

Life in a Viking village was not all peaceful one minute we were all living nicely as a village until a few days a week we would go into a battle. Our Vikings were tough therefore we were always going to win. As the night struck, we would walk to our long houses which had timber frames, with walls of wattle and daub and thatched roofs. As these long houses were only small, we had to share a room with our farm animals which stunk the hole house out. Then morning came upon us, everyone was got up and started to do their daily chores, we went to feed the animals as others were blacksmiths, traders, weapon, and armour makers and many more.

Meanwhile after we had completed our daily chores we won every single one. Weapon were the key to Viking battles as they were sharp and well-made, we had spears, swords, saxes, and axes. Hi, I'm Adam I'll tell you a bit about myself, well my hair is a dark brunette color it's also very shaggy I'm a very brave and outgoing person I love animals oh speaking of animals here is Hawk he is an eagle when I was young, he saved me but I'll explain that another time. Anyway, back to telling you about myself I have hazel eyes with gold near the center and tints of green I always tell my opinion whether people like it or not I am anti-social but still like to be with other people. Everyone says I'm really tall but sometimes I'm like do you not think I already know but I don't mean to be rude as I'm a very polite and caring person. I also like to explore in the village and out as the village is very big and there is always a new place to find, I have this one tree well it's not a tree it's a tree house that me and hawk sit in when we are just out for an adventure or just need a rest (we have to keep it a secret as nobody else knows about the tree house) I'm also a very wise and everyone comes to me when they need advice if the chief tells them off if they come to me for advice. Walking through the open wide village, people could be heard laughing, getting on with chores and even having a friendly battle practice with a friend... well it was friendly when it started, but as the wind got stronger so did the whispering of people but nobody recognized the voice. With the chief peering over the open-wide, coral sea of a sudden, he shouted "GRAB ALL WEAPONS AND SHIELDS AND GET CHILDREN IN THE LONG HOUSES SAFE!" Nobody knowing what was going on, Adam quickly grabbed Edith and Eric (his younger siblings) and ran with them into the longhouse whilst Mother and Father were grabbing weapons and shields. Then chief whispered "Get down and be quiet there's a longboat approaching but it was not one of ours." Everyone quickly followed the rules as the unidentified boat approached the Viking island. A few minutes later, the boat got to the island. They quietly dismounted the boat, grabbed their weapons and ran into the village, not knowing the Vikings were hiding... The Vikings jumped out and the battle commenced. Adam was fighting one of the men and he eventually he fell to the ground and that was the end of one of the men's life he had blood pouring out of his chest from where Adam had stabbed him... A few hours past... a lot of men were down on the other but than on ours. There was one man left, since Adam was the youngest there at 15, he got to do the honors because anyone under fifteen was not allowed to fight. Adam finished him off by using his axe to execute him after the rest of them had tied him up on a chair. They had won the battle! Immediately they all started to cheer, the little ones heard the cheering and burst out of the long house and said "What, what's happened?" They all shouted "WE'VE WON!" and the children also started to cheer. After they'd cheered, they all sat around the hearth as the day burned away and turned to night. They all ate and strolled off into their longhouses with a smile on their face...

Morning came upon us and all Vikings woke up and came out of their longhouses, but instead of doing chores today was a day of celebrating a lot of us were laughing, making jokes and having lots of food.
